

LABOR TO HOLD MET RAILY HERE JUNE 14

Organized labor will stage a monster demonstration against prohibition and legislation affecting the manufacture of 2% per cent beer in front of the Capitol on Flag Day—June 14. Plans toward this end were furthered last night at a meeting of the Central Labor Union in Musicians' Hall, 1006 E street northwest. Mrs. Rena Mooney, wife of Thomas Mooney, who was convicted of bomb-throwing in the San Francisco preparedness parade in 1916, addressed the meeting.

Pledges to participate in the demonstration are being received by the central body from every labor union of the District. Some local labor organizations will impose fines on members who fail to take part, it was announced.

It is estimated that from 25,000 to 50,000 union men will be present at the Capitol in protest. Special trains will bring delegates from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and other near-by cities, including the entire attendance of the American Federation of Labor convention from Atlantic City. The refusal of the Railroad Administration to grant special rates for the occasion will not hamper the out-of-town delegates, an official of the central body said last night.

FEAR SEN. MARTIN CAN'T RESUME SEAT

Colleagues of Senator Thomas B. Martin of Virginia, minority leader of the Senate, who is ill in the hospital of the University of Virginia, are in doubt if the Senator will be able to return to his duties at the Capitol for some time. His leadership at this time, when many of the President's policies are at stake, will be needed sorely by the Democratic minority.

Ever since he caught a severe cold last February, Senator Martin has been in bad health. Recently he was attacked by influenza, which weakened his heart. His friends are urging him to take a long-needed rest.

The Virginia Senator is one of the oldest members of the Senate, not only in years, but in length of service.

What Kind of Blood Have You?

Thin, Pale, and Watery—Keeping You Weak, Nervous and Run-Down—Or Rich, Red, Healthy Blood With Plenty of Iron In It To Give You Strength, Energy, Power and Endurance.

Physician Says Iron is Red Blood Food

Explains How Nuxated Iron—Master Strength-Builder of The Blood—Helps Give Renewed Vim and Energy to Men and Puts Roses Into The Cheeks of Women.

If you tire easily, if you look pale, haggard and worn, if you feel generally weak, nervous and run-down it would, probably astonish you to look at a drop of your own blood under a powerful microscope and compare it with a drop of pure, healthy blood—rich in iron. Actual blood tests show that a tremendously large number of people who are weak and ill lack iron in their blood and that they are ill for no other reason than lack of iron. Iron deficiency paralyzes healthy, energetic action, pulls down the organism and weakens the entire system.

There are thousands whose bodies are aging and breaking down at a time when they should be enjoying perfect bodily health which crises that perfect health simply because they are not awake to the condition of their blood. By adding iron to their thin, pale and watery they are not giving the natural life forces of the body a chance to do their work. Let others go through life apparently possessing, year after year, the elasticity, the strength and the energy of earlier days through their bodies' courses the energy and power that comes from pure, healthy blood.

With strength-giving iron. Iron is red blood food and physicians explain below why they prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to build up the red blood corpuscles and give increased power and endurance.

Commenting on the use of Nuxated Iron as a tonic, strength and blood-builder by one of the nation's people, Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York and the Westchester County Hospital, said: "Modern methods of cooking and the rapid increase of people of this century life has made such an alarming increase in iron deficiency in the blood of American men and women that I have often marveled at the large number of people who lack iron in the blood—and who never suspect the cause of their weak, nervous, run-down state. Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly

HOBSON'S FILM PLAY PROVES A SUCCESS

Congressman Richard Pearson Hobson has scored a success as a motion picture writer.

"The Law of Nature," which is attracting large audiences to the Belasco Theater this week, is the work of Congressman Hobson, produced by David G. Fisher. It is a sensational drama, with a "punch" that is seldom seen in pictures of any nature. It tells a story with a strong moral, but loses none of its interest through pointing out this moral.

Beginning with the sensational scene in the studio in the first act, and continuing throughout the story, the interest in the plot and characters is skillfully maintained. Vincent Coleman plays the male lead, with Frances NeMoyer as the alluring "vamp." These two youngsters are increasing their popularity through their work in this feature.

"The Law of Nature" has won the praise of critics everywhere. It has been seen. It is a picture that is billed as a special because it is unusual, massive, and impressive.

At The Resorts

GLEN ECHO PARK.
Glen Echo Park was taxed yesterday to accommodate the thousands who paid a visit to the popular resort. With a touch of real summer, making Washington uncomfortably hot, the park's charms added a double attraction, providing as it does entertainment aplenty with an escape from the city's heat.

Cello's band, led by Mr. Cello, gave its afternoon concert to large and enthusiastic audiences that demanded many encores. In the evening the attendance was practically doubled.

While all of the fun providers with which Glen Echo is equipped had their full share of attention, the prime favorites were the whiff, the gravity railway and the derby race.

Tonight and other week nights dancing is added to the list. No charge for admission is ever made to the grounds.

CHESAPEAKE BEACH.
The hot days have no terror for the crowds that are flocking to Chesapeake Beach, the bay resort, which yesterday witnessed its first Sunday of the season, a gala day. Shady groves, where one can lull his aching head out over the water; a sandy beach, where one can sport in the water and see interesting sights as the latest style bathing suits are displayed; and a free dining pavilion out over the water, where cool breezes always blow—these are some of the attractions that make one forget summer.

Fishing and boating suggest themselves as other pastimes. For those who like excitement there is a whole mile of boardwalk amusements. Several cafes and hotels offer attractive menus at popular prices.

GREAT FALLS PARK.
The popularity of beautiful Great Falls Park was evidenced by the immense crowds of pleasure seekers who enjoyed their Sunday outing of the season at this picturesque and historic resort. Concerts afternoons and evenings all this week by the Ladies' Victory Orchestra. Free dancing and free motion picture entertainment are also provided for the patrons.

Fishing at the falls is excellent. Fast frequent electric trains leave the terminal at Thirty-sixth and M streets northwest for this resort.

Cong. Hobson's Photoplay Replete With Thrills

One of the tense scenes in "The Law of Nature," the sensational moral-photoplay written by Congressman Richmond Pearson Hobson and produced by David G. Fisher, which is attracting crowds to the Belasco Theater this week.

News For Amusement Seekers

"ON THE HIRING LINE," a comedy in three acts, by Harvey O'Higgins and Harriet Ford; presented by George C. Tyler's Company; Staged by Frederick Stanhope.

THE CAST.
Sherman Fessenden ..... George Howell
Dorothy Fessenden ..... Miss Helen Hayes
Steve Mack ..... Glenn Hunter
Mrs. Sherman Fessenden ..... Miss Emily Stevens
Ronnie Oliver ..... Harry Metcalf
Billy Capron ..... Miss Fania Marino
Miss Fania Marino ..... Sidney Toler
Mrs. Ritchie ..... Miss Josephine Hall
Billy Capron ..... Alfred Lunt

If all five of George C. Tyler's brand-new, first-time comedies are as entertaining and as successful as "On the Hiring Line," which opened at the National last night, Washington is to be treated to more than a month of real stage pleasure and the next dramatic season bids fair to be ushered in with five starring productions which will make the inauguration a brilliant one.

Not only is "On the Hiring Line" a good comedy, with scores of clever and witty lines and with many uproarious situations, but it is presented by a cast of remarkable balance and ability. It is not a play in which any one person really can star; the parts are about equally divided, and the minor roles call for as much

MARSHALL HALL.
Record-breaking crowds found relief from the heat yesterday and Sunday on the shady lawns of Marshall Hall, Washington's nearby river resort, which is reached by a delightful trip on the steamship "Stearns." The historic resort's numerous diversions and care-killing devices were liberally patronized, dancing on the riverside pavilion, for which music is furnished by an excellent orchestra, proving particularly popular.

artistry as do the major ones.

The theme is a bit unusual and yet extremely timely—the ubiquitous servant problem. "Sherm" Fessenden has taken his wife and daughter to the park in equipped car. He once was an actress, and who like cabaret music better than the jazz of crickets and bull frogs, is bored, and in order to compel her husband to take her back to the city, she treats the servants so shabbily that no one will work for her.

"Sherm" tries in vain to get servants and finally is compelled to do the scrubbing and cleaning himself. Then a happy thought strikes him. He calls up a detective agency and has two sleuths sent to the house disguised as servants, pretending to them that something wrong has been going on and that his domestic happiness is jeopardized. The servants work like dogs, and "Sherm" all the time is laughing up his sleeve, for he knows that they won't quit on him.

But Ritchie, the detective, and his wife, "Mom," soon bowl things. Ronnie Oliver, an actor, is a guest at the house, and he borrows one of Mrs. Fessenden's love letters to copy some of the "love-dovey" stuff for a vaudeville sketch. Mr. Sleuth gets the letter, and then there's the very device to pay. The actor gets run out of the house, and it looks as though "Sherm" and his wife will wind up in the divorce court; but finally everything is straightened out and as a closing touch Ritchie announces that he and "Mom" deem sleuthing a very precarious calling and that they would prefer to remain as "Sherm's" butler and cook.

As for the cast they really make the play, or, to be more exact, they make the play doubly good. Emily Stevens as Mrs. Fessenden, has that naturalness and utter abandon which is so characteristic of all real stage artists. She is carefully understudied, and gives a darn woman, whose policy is to let the old man do the worrying for the family. And George Howell, as "Sherm," does the worrying all right, too. He frets and fuses and grumbles when he has to do the housework; he chuckles and gurgles when he puts the sleuths to work as servants; and he raves and rages and pants and grows red when the "love-dovey" letter of woe turns up.

It is necessary to begin a whole new paragraph to discuss the Helen Hayes, the Washington girl who got her first lessons in acting at the Columbia and Polli's when those houses were running stock. Helen is as cute and as pretty and as vivacious as they come, and she'll be recognized as a great actress some day. She got round after round of applause last night, and it was every bit deserved. She plays the role of Sherm's daughter, who is in love with a Senator's son, who has run away from home, and is disguised as a chauffeur.

Alfred Lunt, tall and good looking, made the hearts of all the women flutter. He was good in his minor part Sidney Toler, as Ritchie, the sleuth, was a source of laughter together with Josephine Hall, as "Mom," the detective-cook. Fania Marino sees and then wonders why her Marinet takes the role of a married flirt who makes eyes at every man she sees and then wonder why her husband gets jealous and leaves home.

You'll want to see "On the Hiring Line," and the other four comedies, too, if they are anywhere near as good.

B. F. KEITH'S.
The offering for the week at Keith's Theater is as pleasing as it is diversified. A well-rounded bill, in which dance numbers predominate, is unusually attractive.

Gretchen Eastman and a supporting company of performers present a "Song and Dance Surprise" in a colorful setting. Miss Eastman's performance was a treat, graciously allows John Guiran, Arthur Hartley.

and Mile. Marguerite to share honors. The act is distinctive. Guiran's dancing with Mile. Marguerite is a triumph. Arthur Hartley sings unusually well and ably supports Miss Eastman in her dances and songs.

The four Marx brothers presented "N' Everything," which just about describes the hodge-podge novelty. There is cleverness in every line of the skit, good music, nimble dancing, and a variety astonishing even to a regular devotee of vaudeville.

The Ford Sisters, with a whirlwind dancing act, take a prominent part on the program. "The Ford Review of 1919," with Art L. Beier at the piano, was heartily appreciated. Humidity failed to deter the Fords' mad gallop, and they won signal honors.

Florence Tempest, assisted by M. George Harris at the piano, was well received. "Rose of Verdun," one of the most attractive of the recent songs, was artistically sung. Miss Tempest is still "America's most lovable boy."

Fink's Mules, assisted by several canine and monkey associates, gave their unique performance, which kept the audience in constant applause.

Star-Law Fields furnishes a multitude of laughs.

MARY PICKFORD'S MOTHER AND C.

Washington paid tribute last night to the mother of "America's sweet heart."

A crowd that blocked Ninth street cheered its welcome to Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, mother of Mary, who was the guest of Tom Moore at the Rialto Theater last night at a special presentation of the Mary Pickford feature picture, "Daddy Long Legs." Inside the theater the ovation was repeated.

During its recent run at the Rialto, "Daddy Long Legs," eclipsed by far all previous attendance records anywhere in the country of any former Pickford production. To see in what manner this superb film was presented here was Mrs. Pickford's wish, and to gratify this wish Tom Moore arranged last night's special performance, setting aside for the time being his regular program for the day.

Mrs. Pickford made no stage appearance, her visit to the Rialto being purely for the purpose stated. Yesterday an error made it appear that Mrs. Pickford's presence here was intended as an additional attraction in connection with the showing of the picture.

The lobby of the Rialto was banked high with flowers from friends of the noted actress' guiding genius, and Mr. Moore had also arranged special decorations for the beautiful film house.

Mrs. Pickford remained in Washington several days, staying at the Wardman Park Inn. She is not accompanied by Mary.
